UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA.

BERKELEY, Dec. 13, 1894.

F. W. Bradley, San Diego :

The water contains but 8 grains of residue per gallon and this is composed of about 5 grains of Chloride of Sodium and the rest of Carbonates of Lime and Magnesia.

R. H. LOUGHBRIDGE.

This water is simply a very pure one, unusually free from mineral matter, and what there is of a very mild character. Doubtless its good effects have been due to its exceptional purity.

Respectfully,

E. W. HILGARD.

SAN DIEGO, CAL., January 13, 1897.

Mr. F. W. Bradley, San Diego, Cal. :

DEAR SIR.—A microscopical examination of the water from your spring shows it to be of the highest purity for drinking purposes. It is exceptional to find so great freedom from biological impurities in waters of this locality. However, it is admitted by all authorities, both by chemical and biological investigation, that there is no water so pure as that of a living spring, provided it contains no deleterious chemical substances.

Yours truly,

B. F. GAMBER, F. R. M. S.

SAN DIEGO, CAL., January 10, 1897.

I have used the Bradley Spring Water and can highly recommend it as a most desirable table water, being fully the equal of the Apollinaris water either for its purity as a table water or other qualities. The analysis of the State Chemist Hilgard, shows it to be a water of exceptional purity.

P. C. REMONDINO, M. D.

CAUSE OF TYPHOID FEVER.

Experience of medical men during the late war, proved that impure water is the most prolific cause of that dreaded disease typhoid fever, while pure spring water is an absolute preventive.

PREFACE.

In presenting this new City and County Directory, we offer the products of over four months' painstaking labor.

The canvass of the city has been thorough, and in the work of compilation the utmost degree of accuracy has been observed. It has been our constant aim to place before the San Diego public a Directory which would fill all modern requirements; where all classes of directory information pertaining to the City and County could be found, and when found relied upon. A longer time has been consumed in the preparation of the present publication than will need to be in the future, now that a proper foundation has been laid for a base from which to work. We invite the attention of the reader to the special features pertaining to individual information, as indicated by the abbreviations in use with reference to occupation and residence, all of which are properly indexed with a key; also to the information of a more general character, with reference to the courts and other public institutions of the State, County and City. In individual information outside the City only those who are householders have been included, as the residence of others is constantly changing, and is not a basis of reliable information.

There are 8,602 references in the alphabetical list of names for the City Directory after deducting the names of corporations, firms, societies, churches, blocks, places of business, etc., which are 606 in number. We have the names of 7,996 individuals, which at the conservative ratio of two and three-fourths ($2\frac{3}{4}$) inhabitants for each name in the Directory, shows the present population of San Diego to be 21,989.

In conclusion, we may be pardoned for the belief that upon a close inspection the merits of the work will meet with recognition and that the public will accord its appreciation in such a substantial manner as to warrant a future endeavor in this field of labor.

That this work will be found absolutely flawless would be too much to claim or expect, but we believe we are justified in asserting that all inaccuracies or deficiencies that effort and diligence could overcome have been avoided.

HISTORY

OF THE

City and County of San Diego.

To Cabrillo belongs the honor of the discovery of San Diego Bay, and to Viscaino the honor of naming it San Diego. Although the discovery of the bay dates back to 1542, the connected history of the city and the state begins in 1769 with the planting of California's first mission at Old Town by Father Junipero Sierra. The city of San Diego is the oldest municipality in California. The "Pueblo" was organized January 1st, 1833. In the early fifties Spanish and American life mingled in trade and commerce at Old Town. The present site of the city was purchased and laid out in 1867 by A. E. Horton. With the advent of the Santa Fe railroad, in 1885, thousands came to San Diego to seek new homes.

While history and romantic interest surrounding Spanish occupation center in the old town of San Diego, the modern city teems with the life and activity of a commercial center. The city has a population of about 20,000; is the county seat, and has all the modern improvements found in cities three or four times its size. Sanitary matters have been carefully looked after, and include a sewerage system costing $425,000, and so planned as to have a capacity for a city of 100,000 inhabitants. Several of the business streets are paved with asphalt, while all are wide, well graded, and finished with cement sidewalks.

The San Diego Electric Railway system covers upward of twenty-five miles of streets and is well equipped with modern cars, including double-deckers. All portions of the city are illuminated by electric lights. Suburban lines of railway connect the city with the surrounding fertile valleys, historic points and pleasure resorts, and extend to the Mexican boundary (fifteen miles). Among the places of amusement is a handsomely appointed Opera House, costing $100,000, being one of the finest in the west. The public schools of this city and county have a high educational standard. There are also excellent private schools and a branch of the State Normal School. There are attractive church buildings of all denominations, and a Public Library, comprising upwards of 15,000 volumes of carefully selected books, which will soon be housed in a handsome library building, the construction of which was made possible by a gift of $50,000 from the Hon. Andrew Carnegie.

Fraternal and secret societies as well as literary and musical associations of a very high order are well represented. The homes of General Grant's family and scores of people prominent throughout the world are evidences of the irresistible charms of our beautiful and healthy city. Substantial, well-stocked wholesale and retail stores, several banks, three daily papers, foundries, manufacturing plants, etc., all show an active commercial center and distributing point for a large territory. The city is well equipped with modern hotels, restaurants and rooming houses, furnishing excellent accommodation at reasonable rates. Water is supplied to the inhabitants by two companies, the supply being abundant and pure.

For those needing special care and medical treatment, there are several excellent sanitariums in the city limits in charge of skillful physicians, with experienced nurses in constant attendance.

The Bay of San Diego is one of the finest natural deep sea harbors in the world and is the commercial gateway not only of Southern California, but of the entire southwest. Commerce is carried on with all parts of the world. San Diego being a port of entry with Custom House, Quarantine Station, Marine Ways, wharves, coal bunkers, etc. Lines of steamers ply between this port, San Francisco and the west coast of Mexico. The California and Oriental Steamship Company has several huge steam freighters feeding the Santa Fe Railway with the products of the Orient, plying regularly between Hong Kong, Yokohama and San Diego. Sailing vessels from different parts of the world are always to be found in the bay, which is some fifteen miles in length, having an area of 22 square miles, with 8 square miles of anchorage. The steamers of the Kosmos line bring passengers and freight from Mexican, Central and South American ports. At present the only outlet by rail to the north and east is via the great Santa Fe system, of which San Diego is the Pacific Coast terminus, though other lines are projected, and it is safe to assume that San Diego, the first port of call north from a foreign territory and the only harbor along the coast of California south of San Francisco, is destined to become the center of a large and increasing commerce.

THE COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO.

Is larger than the State of Massachusetts. It has over fifty miles of sea coast. For one hundred and fifty miles it borders on the Mexican boundary; the Colorado River separating the eastern part of the county from the territory of Arizona for some fifty-five miles of its length. In addition to the rapid settlement of the coast region, the wonderfully fertile valley of the New River in the eastern part of the county is now being opened up. What has long been known as the Colorado desert and looked upon as barren land has been proven to be the richest and most fertile section of the State, and as a strong company is now developing water for this region, it will soon teem with life, furnishing homes for thousands of families. From the sea coast the country rises gently about one hundred feet to the mile by broad mesa and rolling hill to the mountain sections. All portions are reached by the sea breeze. The difference in elevation affords quite a variation in climate and rainfall, making possible a wide range of products. The coast section is irrigated by water from reservoirs in the mountains where the rainfall is abundant; the higher valleys requiring little or no irrigation. Cereals, deciduous fruits, olives, vegetables, etc., are raised largely without irrigation. Citrus fruits require irrigation during the summer months. San Diego county contains the largest area of fertile, frostless land of any one county in the United States. It is the natural home of the lemon, the most delicate of citrus fruits, Chula Vista being considered the center of the lemon belt of America. Three large irrigation systems already furnish water for thousands of acres of land, and a fourth system is well under way, whose works will eventually cost upwards of $3,000,000. This system alone will irrigate one hundred thousand acres of our best citrus land, besides furnishing an additional supply of water for the city. Horticultural interests range from the finest apples and cherries in the mountain sections, to citrus and semi-tropic fruits along the coast. Mixed farming, dairying and stock raising are extensively and profitably carried on in many places. Unimproved citrus land is worth from $50 to $300 per acre with water. Improved citrus orchards from $200 per acre up. Deciduous fruit, olive and farming land, $5 to $50 per acre. Real estate values are not inflated and there are many good and safe investments for capital. Several mining prospects are now being opened up, which give promise of a bright future. One of the best known land paying mining properties in the State is situated in the eastern part of the county. Outside of San Diego city there are a number of thriving towns, whose church and school privileges are of the best.

The above historical sketch was furnished the San Diego Directory Company by H. P. Wood, Secretary of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce.

- 61—Twenty-sixth and Kearney.

Three strokes at noon and same at 5 p. m., are for hitching exercises.

To turn in an alarm from a fire alarm box, break the glass in the small box on the post, take out the key and put it in the large box and open the door. You will find a hook inside, pull down strong and let go quick. That is all that is necessary.

To send in an alarm by telephone, call up central, tell the operator that there is a fire, giving street and number. The operator will notify fire department. Have some one stand out in front of premises so as to inform the firemen where the fire is located.

TOURISTS AND Health Seekers...

in search of a MILD, SALUBRIOUS CLIMATE, for either WINTER or SUMMER, should visit the GEM VALLEY of Southern California,

❁ ESCONDIDO ❁

THE VALLEY having an altitude of 750 feet, is surrounded by irregular, picturesque mountains, between which are beautiful drives leading to other smaller valleys which center at Escondido.

ESCONDIDO is situated in San Diego County, on the Southern California Railway, 107 miles from Los Angeles, 35 miles from San Diego and 14 miles inland, with foothills modifying both the sea-breeze and the desert wind, giving the valley a

❁ CLIMATE UNSURPASSED ❁

The Hotel Escondido occupies a commanding site, is commodious and well kept, and under the new management offers special inducements to families and tourists. There is a good billiard room and a lawn tennis court in connection with the hotel.

THE TABLE IS ONE OF THE FEATURES OF THE HOUSE.

The Stable accommodations are good; saddle horses and drivers are kept for use of guests, at moderate prices.

This is an ideal, quiet, restful spot, where those in search of rest or health will find good accommodations, sunshine, pure air and an abundance of PURE MOUNTAIN SPRING WATER.

J. W. HENDERSON, D. O.—A graduate of the American School of Osteopathy, of Kirksville, Mo., a former member of the faculty of that institution, and a staff operator of the A. T. Still Infirmary, is located at Escondido and will arrange for treatment of patients.

DO YOU think a daily paper owned and operated by a water corporation, engaged in the business of fighting taxpayers and citizens day and night is the sort of a paper you want to support? You know the situation. This town has three dailies. Two of them are corporation organs. Only one is a real newspaper and that one is
